SPORTS LINEUP

By United Press
 Miller Don Gehrman will be after his fourth straight Wanmaker mile victory in tonight's Milrose games in New York.

A field of 18 athletes, including every 1951 Milrose winner, will be on hand for the all star track and field meet.

Director Fred Schmertz of the games is confident the wealth of talent will furnish new meet or even "world records in a number of events. The events in which marks may topple include the 60-yard sprint, 60-yard high hurdles, 600-yard run, the mile, the mile relay and the pole vault.

In the feature Wanmaker mile, Gehrman will once more be competing with the flying G-man, Fred W. Gehrman already has taken two decisions from Wilt this year.

Other star performers tonight include Harrison Dillard in the 60-yard high hurdles and the Rev. Bob Richards in the pole vault.

Alfred Vandell fires all barrels today in the Santa Margarita handicap. Anita Vandell handles the post in the $30,000 gallop for fillies and mares.

The Vanderbilt entries are "Next Move," "Bed O' Roses" and "Sweet Talk." Next move has been handed a whopping impost of 130 pounds in the mile and one eighth race.

Included in the 18 probable starters is the mount which beat both Next Move and Bed O' Roses in last year's Santa Margarita
 "Special Touch."

Best regarded among the dark-horse entries is "Sickle's Image," who won five stakes last year.

A big five game card is on tap in the NBA tonight. Philadelphia will be at Boston, Syracuse at Baltimore, Indianapolis at New York, Fort Wayne at Rochester and Minneapolis at Milwaukee.

In last night's games, Philadelphia nipped Syracuse 95-94 and Indianapolis beat Fort Wayne 83-79.

C. W. Winter's "Whirls Lea" is a stout favorite in a field of 12 fillies caded for the six-furlong Jasmine Stakes at Hialeah today.

"Hushaby Baby" and "Fags La" also are expected to receive heavy play in the $10,000 sprint.

Underdog St. Joseph High School of Wapakoneta, Ohio, used a "deep freeze" style to slow down the usually high-scoring Cridersville High School basketball team last night. But Cridersville won just the same—by the score of 34.

Sports Official
Wants Security

By United Press
 To the average American boy playing baseball for a living wouldn't be work at all. Most would consider swinging a bat and catching a fly ball nothing short of paradise.

"Young Chuck Coniskey had those dreams. He thought only of the day when he could play first base for the Chicago White Sox—the team his grandfather founded in 1900.

A big, sturping youngster, Chuck had a fling at the minor leagues in Wisconsin, but somewhere along the way he realized he didn't have it for the big leagues. Many said he could have made the grade in the bushes, but Chuck wanted the big time or nothing. But if he couldn't make it as a player, Chuck would do it as the business leader of the White Sox.

In 1948, after a thorough grooming, Chuck was named vice president of the White Sox organization. Just two days ago, he announced his resignation from the job.

"Says 26-year-old Chuck: 'I had no contract on the job and I was on a day-to-day basis. Says his attorney: 'Chuck wants a contract commensurate with his duties and those of other officers.'

The kid who has grown up with the game adds: 'I don't want any more money. I just want assurance that I'll be with the club next year.' But he adds: 'It's strictly a business question. I have nothing but the fondest thoughts for my mother.'

Redskins To Stick With
Dick Todd

By United Press
 The Washington Redskins have decided to stick along with head football coach Dick Todd for the 1952 National League season.

Todd, who replaced Herman Ball after the third game last year, signed a one-year contract with owner George Marshall. The Redskins won five games out of nine after Todd took over. The former Redskins halfback says he soon will name two assistant coaches.

In college football, coach Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma has his own idea of what's wrong with the game.

Wilkinson says the investigators shouldn't blame bowl games, spring practice or the platoon system.

"The trouble lies in recruiting and subsidization," says Wilkinson.
 "And even then, there would be little reason for criticism except that some schools have been cheating."

Wilkinson, speaking at a banquet last night in Memphis, added:
 "Many schools keep the letter of the law but try every method to get around the spirit of the rule."

The son of a famous coach says he is glad to hear his father is sticking to the job. Bob Black made this comment after learning that his father, Earl "Red" Black will continue as coach and athletic director at West Point. Bob, one of the cadets expelled for cribbing last summer, is attending Colorado College.

Says young Black, "I haven't heard from dad in a long time, but I'm glad to hear he's staying at West Point."

Coach Black made his declaration last night and promptly warned there are lean years ahead for the Black Knights of the Hudson.

"I will take several years before we get back where we were," says Coach Black. "We will be back up there in several years, but it won't be easy."

Louisville
Tournament
Ends Today

By United Press
 The only Louisville team left in the running is the powerful, Louisville Manual team that walloped Covington Holmes, 78 to 42, last night in a first round ball game.

Three other Louisville teams lost in the tournament that sends four Louisville teams against four out-of-town teams.

Little Lily High School won a rough-and-tumble game from St.
 Xavier last night, 58 to 50.

The two other first round games, yesterday afternoon, saw Cuba cup Louisville Male High School, 42 to 30, and Campbellsville sock Flagg High 38 to 31.

That means the semi-final games this afternoon will have Campbellville against Cuba, and Manual against Lily.

The winners of those two games collide tonight at 8:30 (CST) for the championship of this, the fifth annual Louisville Invitational.

The ball games last night in the Manual completely overpowered a game Covington Holmes team.
 The Big Red Manual team raced to a quick 15 to 3, lead that lets Holmes rattled.

After that, though Holmes fought all the way, it was no use.

Manual led, 41 to 27, at intermission, and had pulled away to 58 to 50 at the end of the third quarter.

The final score of the game, Manual 78, Covington Holmes 42.
 Big Phil Gfawey led Manual with a brilliant defensive game, time after time blocking shots in midair.

Morris Sketters, a little Manual guard, led the scoring with 13 points.

Carl McCord had 12 points for Holmes.

In the final game last night, Lily trailed, 14 to 11, at the end of the first quarter, then came back to lead, 22 to 21, at the half. After three periods Lily led 38 to 41, and then won going away.

Karl Doyle used one-handed shots to score 21 points to lead the Lily scoring. His teammate, J. D. Brock had 17.

ATLANTA (UP)—Willie Mays, the National League's outstanding rookie in 1952, thinks this year's New York Giant team will be stronger than last year's pennant winner.

The young outfielder expressed the opinion while in Atlanta today to receive an "inspiration for Youth" award from the Atlanta all-sports club.

Mays says the Larry Doby says second baseman Eddie Stanky put should still wind up on top. Mays says, "That Stanky, he was just like having another manager out in the field."

Mays himself won't be on hand next year. He reports about March 1st for induction into the army.
 "But," says Mays, "they have several guys who can take my place."

Two Cleveland stars also were in Atlanta and both say they think the Indians have a good chance of winning the American League crown. Outfielder Larry Doby says the loss of Ted Williams at Boston and Joe Dimaggio at New York will make a difference. "Dimaggio," says Doby, "turnishes about 70 per cent of the Yankee's mor-

Harry "Sultana" Simpson had similar views. He thinks the Yan-

"It Does Make a Difference Who Writes Your Insurance"

Resettler's
Kit Offered
By CARE

NEW YORK In line with CARE's policy "to help people to help themselves," addition of a "Resettler's Kit" to the variety of CARE food and textile packages was announced here today.

The new tool package contains a claw hammer, a pair of pliers, a crosscut saw, a shovel, a spade, a pickaxe, a hacksaw and a hand-saw, and will be available to American donors at the price of $15.

Announcing introduction of this latest CARE package, Paul Comly, French, executive director of the Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe, Inc. pointed out that the kit was designed to bring effective aid to some of the more than ten million "Volksdeutsch" expellees and other Iron Curtain refugees now living in Western Germany.

"CARE's Resettler's Kit constitutes, to the best of my belief, the first concrete step toward tackling the expellee problem in a manner that promises definite and lasting results," French said. He explained that the West German government was making great efforts to re-settle thousands of these refugees families now living in over-crowded camps on lands that formerly served military purposes and on the estates of former high ranking Nazi officials.

However, progress of the resettlement program was seriously impaired by the lack of proper tools. "French stressed German government officials and representatives of refugee groups had informed CARE that 20,000 "Volksdeutsche" and refugee families were in need of hand tools and other equipment suitable for clearing and cultivating of land and for home building.

"The benefits to the West German economy of this extension by CARE of its rehabilitation program are twofold," French pointed out.
 "Not merely will the tool kits help the refugees and expellees, but in addition CARE, in purchasing these kits from German toolmakers, is providing additional employment opportunities for many."

French emphasized that tests had shown the tools in the Resettler's Kit to be of excellent quality steel.
 So far 500 kits have been allocated by CARE for distribution to the Berlin and Western zones of Germany. Orders for delivery February 1 may be placed with any local CARE outlet, or directly with CARE 20 Broad Street, New York 5.

Women Sigh, Men Perspire At Mink Show In Capitol

A New York woman fur dealer says it's so hard to get rid of mink coats in Washington, you can't give them away. But around the rest of the country, they're just as beloved as ever.

That's the word from Manhattan fur stylist Helen Green who says "we're having the biggest mink season in years." Far from cutting down on the mink in their wardrobes, blue-book and fashion-plate quarters now are adding to them.

Miss Green says many fur wardrobes now include a full-length mink for winter, a jacket-size for fall and a stole to take the nip out of spring air.

Says Miss Green—"It's quite sad, the way minks have dropped from popularity in Washington. We had a show there on December 8, and it was pathetic watching the men who showed up."

She said the women sighed and yearned as of old. But the men perspired and looked nervously around every time a model pranced down a runway in another set of skins.

Says the New York furrier—"Just for the effect, we showed Washington the newest thing in mink—something called supple, and priced at 40-thousand dollars. But we really didn't expect any orders in Washington—and we didn't get any."

North Carolina has 363 rayon and silk mills with 897,767 spindles—more than any other southern state.

Mrs. Beale is a graduate of Murray High School and attended Murray State College. She is now employed in the business office of the Houston-McDevitt Clinic.

Stoles And Scarves Can Be Made To Look Different

By United Press

Both stoles and scarves will continue right into spring and summer. But yours can look different from those worn by every other woman, simply by clever draping.

Take a stole for instance. Instead of just spreading it around your shoulder, take the two ends, pull them back between arms and bodice and loop them across your back. Or drape a long rectangular stole Grecian fashion. Let one end of it swing over one shoulder, slightly. Drape it down the front of a straight-lined dress, and hold it in place with a belt. This treatment is effective with a solid color against one of your basic black crepes or shantung.

Ways of wearing scarves and stoles were demonstrated in a recent fashion show by one of the leading makers. One of the models turned a large, square scarf into a colorful bolero for a black or navy dress by this method. Tie the two corners together at each end—so that you have a scarf which in a way is shaped like a baby cradle. Now slide your arms through the end loops, and pull the scarf up around your shoulders.

You can dress up a severe black or navy shantung by making giant bows out of a couple of the crisp, candy-striped, taffeta scarves featured for spring. Use jeweled clips to fasten the bows on the left shoulder and right pocket. One word of caution: Don't try this treatment with a dress which has full skirt or lots of collar. Looks too cluttered.

Blue on blue turns up as the favorite color in accessories, as shown by scarf and jewel manufacturers. One maker ties a blue polka dot scarf around the waistline of a solid navy dress in a cumbersome effect. One costume jeweler has light sapphire flowered pins marching down the front of a suit for buttons.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Paul Turley of Stuckeyville, Miss., and Miss Betty J. Reynolds of Paducah. Miss Reynolds' selections were "I Love Thee" and "Because." The traditional wedding marches were used.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with greenery and candles in the seven-branched candelabra. The ceremony was read under a wrought iron arch holding arrangements of white spring flowers on each side.

The bride, given in marriage by her father of Louisville, was lovely in a ballerina length dress of a white taffeta skirt under net with a transparent velvet fitted waist. Any self covered buttons were down the front of the waist. She wore a shoulder length veil attached to a velvet cap. She carried a stylized bouquet of white carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Sara Lester of Cadiz, wore an aqua net dress styled like the bride's. A garland of pink carnations was her headpiece. She carried a stylized bouquet of pink carnations.
